

COUPLE OPENS SPUDNUT SHOP

Charles A. and Mary E. Smith, co-owners and operators of the Spudnut shop, opened their new place of business at 104 York street today. Free spudnuts and coffee from 2 to 4 p. m. are a feature for the day.

Spudnut shops are located in 31 states and 250 cities, each shop individually owned and operated, through a franchise arrangement with Pelton's Spudnuts, Inc., of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Spudnuts are described as "large, fluffy and airy, never soggy or greasy. They are made of a special blend of wheat flour, dehydrated potatoes, from which the name is taken, milk solids, whole fresh eggs and other ingredients. They are raised like pastries, cooked at an exact temperature and glazed, sugar-coated or chocolate-iced."

Store hours of the new Gettysburg Spudnut shop are from 6:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 6:30 a. m. to midnight Saturday. The shop will be closed on Sunday.

2 YOUTHS HELD FOR BURGLARY

Two Adams county youths whose families moved here from Virginia and Tennessee within recent years were under arrest today charged with the burglary of a summer home on Marsh creek early last September.

Willie Lee Reynolds, 18, of Gettysburg, R. 2, signed a plea of guilty today before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder on a burglary charge and was held for court. He was remanded to jail.

Algie Carl Price, 13, also of Gettysburg, R. 2, is in the Adams county jail awaiting a hearing before Squire Snyder on a burglary charge.

State police of the Gettysburg substation said both youths were charged with breaking into a cottage owned by three brothers, Harry and William Mumper, Gettysburg, R. 2, and Frank Mumper, 215 Steinwehr avenue, at Red Rock, near Stealing a blanket and burlap. The cottage is on land owned by C. Russell Rohrbaugh, police said.

Police said the blanket had been recovered, but that Reynolds said the bugle had been thrown into the creek.

Police said Reynolds and Price were suspected of committing several other crimes in this section.

30 Killed

One doctor cut off a man's mangled arm to get him out of the debris. Another sawed off both legs of a trapped Negro passenger.

Many of the victims screamed and prayed—in pain and fright. Others lay dead, twisted like rag dolls, their bodies broken in the split-second impact of grinding steel.

"Kill me, please kill me," one man pleaded to rescuers. Another woman, tons of metal crushing her chest, screamed: "Get the weight off me."

A white-faced, heart-sick rescue worker looked up at newsmen and gritted through clenched teeth: "We're not taking out bodies; we're taking out parts of bodies."

Floodlights played on the wreckage as rescue workers used acetylene torches, axes and crowbars to pry into the twisted carcasses of the two 10-car electric trains. Finally, railroad wreckers bulldozed their way in to jerk apart the lead coaches so the hunt for bodies could go on.

A little white stucco Negro church stood a few feet from the scene. First bodies recovered were laid on its lawn. Then the pitiful row of corpses began to grow. So the interior of the church was converted into a morgue and the remains moved inside.

Warriors Down Hanover 38-32; Scrubs Win; Trojans Come Here Tuesday For Important Clash

Rallying after trailing 8-4 at the close of the first period, the Gettysburg highlanders downed Hanover 38-32 on the Nighthawk court Friday evening and are now definitely the only barrier in Chambersburg's drive for its seventh straight title.

On Tuesday night the key game to the South Penn race will be played here with Chambersburg. A win for the Warriors would create a deadlock for the second half race necessitating a playoff. Chambersburg has already won the first half title.

Bob Krick's pair of goals were the Forney-men's only tallies in the first period at Hanover while Dick Wendler landed three and Sanders one to give the Nighthawks an 8-4 advantage.

The Warriors showed their best offensive form in the second quarter when they tabbed 14 points to take an 18-13 half time lead. Ken Deardoff came through with seven points, Kuhn added five and Sachs a pair. Meanwhile the Nighthawks were held to a single goal by Wendler and free shots by Wendler, Reese and Zimmernan.

Bolster Lead
In the third period the Warriors hiked their margin through a pair of goals by Dick Harriel and single twin-pointers by Leo Kuhn, Bobby Sachs and Deardoff with the latter adding a foul. Hanover's points came on a pair of goals by Hart and singles by Sanders and Rhodes.

Gettysburg dug to its lead throughout the final frame despite the efforts of Rhodes who landed a trio of goals and foul.

The victory marked the 13th in 20 engagements this season for Gettysburg.

Coach Howard Shoemaker's reserves made the evening a complete success by taking the preliminary contest 28-19. After being held to a 9-8 lead at half time, the scrubs built up a 19-13 lead in the third period and maintained a safe lead thereafter.

Georgetown, Mule Teams Here Today

Local sports fans are offered wrestling and basketball in the Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium today.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock Clyde Cole's matmen meet Muhlenberg in what promises to be a hotly contested affair.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Bullet cagers meet Georgetown university. The Hoyas are regarded as one of the strongest teams on the locals' schedule. No preliminary game will be played.

JR. HI CAGERS TOP HANOVER TO CLINCH TITLE

Gettysburg junior high school's scrappy cage team finished its regular season with a perfect record by defeating Hanover in a thrilling game here Friday evening 33-28 for its 12th victory in a row. The largest crowd of the season, approximately 500 fans witnessed the contest.

Coach Herr's team clinched the Southern Division title of the South Penn Junior High league through the victory and now will meet the North Division titlist for the league championship.

After taking the lead shortly before the first period ended at 4-3, Coach Herr's outfit led throughout although the Falcons were contenders all the way, three times pulling to within one point in the third period at 16-15, 18-17 and 20-19.

The home team led 27-25 with slightly less than two minutes remaining. "Skip" Fisel took over at that point, landed a foul and then dribbled through for a goal. With Hanover fighting desperately for possession Skinner and Fisel were fouled and each converted. Schue netted a foul for Hanover and Musselman flipped in a one-hander. The scoring ended with Fisel landing a free toss with 20 seconds to go.

All Play Well
All of the Gettysburg outfit deserve credit for the triumph. Big Jim Skinner was a tower of strength on the defense and landed nine points. Johnny Beggie hit the cords for four beautiful long shots while Dick Dayhoff and George Bender came through with important goals with Fisel's late spurge sewing up the affair. Stremmel led the Falcons with six goals.

The Gettysburg jayvees suffered their second loss in 12 starts, both to Hanover, in the preliminary game by a 21-10 count. Hanover started fast and piled up a 13-4 lead at the half and was never seriously threatened over the local lads, proved towered over the local lads, proved too much competition under the boards.

A few years ago a fragment of an intended autobiography was written by the late Stephen Leacock, the noted Canadian humorist and teacher. Only the first few chapters were written, and these appeared under the title of "The Boy I Left Behind" after his death.

Leacock left more than that boy behind, however. He left a lifetime of memories, and many a student who sat under his teachings can testify to the fact that more than "boy" was left behind. As a humorist he was known all over the Continent and in England, and the reader chuckles as his books are read today. His first book, "Literary Lapdogs," I take from my shelves on many an occasion for a mental uplift.

Each of us sheds much of what we are, every day of our lives, leaving it behind in some form or other. It may be called our Good Will, for such a thing is so elastic. We can leave kindnesses of many a description behind, and friends as well, to whom we may return as occasion may offer.

What would the world do without its books that have been left behind for centuries? Or its art and exquisite creations that grow rarer and more priceless with the years? How in contrast these are to the ruin that leaves as their aftermath. How inspiring are pleasant memories left behind.

On my study walls are a few works of art that have given me happiness over the years, but they are more than mere works of art. They are fragments of souls, stamped into each conception. There is beauty there. There is feeling. There is "that something" that the artist could not hide if he would. Something is spiritual and eternal.

It's what we leave behind that makes us known and loved. And it makes us missed, too. An author friend of mine recently died. I went to my library shelves and took out some of his books. I read them and then I meditated: This is what he left behind—something of his undying self, something that was once himself in the flesh, as his mind thought out the words and his publishers put them into books. A portion of his life left behind!

THE ROUNDED LIFE

From money comes the food we eat,
The shoes and clothes we wear;
For winter, comfort of the heat;
For summer, rest from care.

But, having these, there's more to gain
Than skill or shrewdness can obtain.

Who truly would in life succeed
Man's varied roles must fill
And many calls for service heed
Which merely prove good will;
Their one reward, the friendly grip
Which seals the bond of fellowship.

So many roles a man must play
A rounded life to live,
Successfully to close a day
There's much to share and give.

It takes, to work the good Lord's plan,
Both heart and mind to make a man.

Facts About '49 Income Tax Reports

NO. 5—DEDUCTIONS AND TAX-FREE INCOME

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of 12 stories explaining who must do what and how about 1949 income tax return.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—What deductions can you claim in making out your 1949 income tax return?

Here's an ABC on that, together with examples of some kinds of income which, being tax-free, doesn't have to be reported at all.

To begin with, there are various limits on the deductions you can claim for medical expenses. And your charitable contributions can't be more than 15 per cent of your income.

But there are no limits on the personal deductions you can claim, provided you can prove you had them.

Personal Expenses

And—don't get business deductions confused with personal deductions. There are separate places on form 1040 for those who want to list personal deductions and (or) business deductions.

Here are personal expenses which can be deducted:

Contributions (limited to 15 per cent of your income) to charitable, fraternal, religious, scientific and veteran organizations and non-profit hospitals and educational institutions and societies like those for tuberculosis, heart, and cancer.

Other Deductions

You can deduct these things, too: Dues to a labor union; state income and personal property and real estate taxes except taxes which, like paving assessments, tend to increase the value of your property. Also—

Interest on your personal note to a bank or individual, a mortgage on your home; a life insurance loan, if you pay the interest in cash; delinquent taxes; interest on installment purchases. Also—

State or local retail sales taxes, auto license fees (but not auto inspection fees), poll taxes, state gasoline taxes except in California, Florida, Louisiana, North Dakota, Utah, Wyoming and Hawaii.

Some Can't Be Deducted

You can deduct for property losses from fire, theft, storm or auto accidents when you weren't wilfully at fault and didn't get paid off for the damage.

Also, you can deduct for use of your car for business. Entertaining for business purposes, subscriptions to professional journals, books and magazines bought for use in your profession, equipment, tools and instruments used on your job, and cost of work clothes and uniforms when they can't be used to take the place of ordinary clothing.

You cannot deduct the federal excise taxes unless paid for business purposes; such as telephone, telegraph or transportation, such as train or bus.

And—you cannot deduct the federal tax on jewelry, furs, cosmetics, estates, inheritance or gifts imposed by the government, states or cities. And—you cannot deduct for gifts you made to relatives or other individuals.

You can deduct for medical expenses but only that part which exceeds 5 per cent of your income.

Tax-Free Income

Here is the tax-free income which doesn't have to be reported:

Unemployment compensation; social security benefits; life insurance paid because of the death of the insured; inheritances, gifts or bequests of money or property although the income from them is taxable; sickness and injury benefits received through accident or health insurance or under workmen's compensation laws. Also—

Monthly government allowances to the families or servicemen; military or naval pay; all benefits under the GI Bill of Rights, such as for educational and subsistence; state bonuses to veterans; disability pay; retirement for service-connected disability; allowances for uniforms; subsistence, traveling, quarters; pensions to veterans or their families for war services.

Formerly, active service pay of members of the armed forces also was exempt, but this pay has been completely taxable since January 1, 1949. Therefore, soldiers and sailors must file tax returns just like civilians if they are paid $600 or more a year.

Care Preselects Next Car

They may pass automobile row without glancing right or left; they may turn a deaf ear to salesmen, or fell content to be out of touch with what's going on in motordom, but millions of motorists are unconsciously selecting the sort of car they will purchase next. This prediction, made by some shrewd automobile men, is explained by the observation, "Show me the way a motorist takes care of his present car and I will tell you what kind of car he will buy next." Motordom in general would benefit by the realization that caring for the car really means that care will also save your hope of being able to buy a better one.

Don't let a few dollars worth of lubricant stand in the way of reaching your goal. Unless you're a spendthrift, you are preselecting your future car by the way you treat the one that now serves you.

Toward Better Mileage

Talking with an experienced automobile dealer and driver, I picked up a thought that should interest and help those who are currently driving cars with automatic transmissions. Each of these devices involves use of a fluid coupling, sometimes with the aid of a mechanical clutch and sometimes without. At any rate this dealer notes that too many people are inclined to force their cars to drag. That is, instead of building up to normal speed so that the car can cruise along with the engine doing a maximum of work, the tendency is to drive just under this speed and thus force the engine to work harder. What happens then is that there is more slippage, lowered gas mileage. Furthermore, this speed varies for conditions, for the load carried and for the gear in which the car is operating.

Put It To Work

Offering of a small electrical gadget to prevent blue tungsten oxide from forming on the breaker points in winter focuses attention on the fact that slow driving in cold weather causes a decrease in electrical resistance of the primary circuit. However, there still is the opportunity to hit the open road occasionally, and this is definitely an advantage if you don't happen to be using one of these resistance regulators. A good run on the open road in winter is always helpful to the valves and the motor generally.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"The clutch plate has always been such an easy target for suspicion when the clutch chatters, I don't blame owners for thinking of this first and pretty much all the time. Actually, however, there are other reasons for chatter. One of the most common of the newer causes is looseness of the motor in its mountings. Bent splines in the clutch or the transmission will also do this. One reader tells me that he ruined three clutches in his new car before a factory trouble-shooter discovered a defective spline. Then there is misalignment, not to mention a loose fit of the axle shaft where it joins the differential."

Stop Needless Noise

On the theory that noise causes fatigue, keeps people awake, lowers efficiency and thus costs money, quite aside from annoyance, the National Noise Abatement Council is waging relentless war on all forms of unnecessary noise. Right here and now I want to add mention of a noise which car drivers could well afford to eliminate. This is the squealing of tires at corners. The thing goes on all day and night and gives listeners the impression that they are about to hear and perhaps witness a bad spill or a fatal collision. Checking tire squeal is merely a matter of taking it just a little easier. Keep the tires properly inflated, too. And don't over-inflate as this will also cause squeal.

Rule For Gaskets

While it is always better to use new gaskets when installing spark plugs you may find yourself without these when you are putting them back. This being the case, remember that the old gaskets won't need as much tightening. The rule is to install the plugs finger tight and then to give them 1/4 to 1/2 turn with a wrench. Where new gaskets are used increase the tightening to the range of 1/2 to 3/4 turn.

Whether to have a valve and carbon job in the winter often is a reasonable question if the engine is known to be much in need of such service. But an angle that may help in making a decision is the chance that you will get a better head gasket job at this season due to the importance of preventing an anti-freeze leak between the head and the block. No good mechanic is going to gloss over this part of the work on the theory that if a leak develops he'll just have to put on a new gasket or try drawing down the head nuts a bit. An anti-freeze leak into the crankcase may be costly. He will make a special effort to avoid it.

Oddity In Knocks

Odd among engine knocks is the sort that appears only when the engine is idling and which is due to excessive escape of gases into the crankcase. Sometimes gases blow down past ring gaps which have lined up. Anyhow, the check-up is to hold your hand over the top of the oil filler pipe while the engine is idling. If the knock is this type it will immediately disappear.

For Your Safety

It isn't only speed that we must trim a bit at this slippery season of the year but also the rate at which we slow down. Smart way to do this is to figure on taking just twice the normal distance for each stop. It will slow down stopping speed most effectively.

The blue stone of a gravel driveway is much more effective than sand for traction when wheels spin in snow or on ice. It's a good idea to have a supply of it in a box in the garage.

If the defrosters do not seem to be cleaning the windshield of ice, stop the car, close the windows, turn on the car heater full and let the interior get good and warm. Once the glass gets warm inside defrosting will be more effective.

It's A Motor Question

Q. When cleaning brake lines and replacing the fluid is it necessary to bleed all four brakes? J.H.B.

A. Yes. Do each one separately, and make sure that the reservoir of the master cylinder is kept at least half full of brake cleaning fluid. You'll need someone to help with this job.

Q. A friend of mine noticed that oil was dripping from the lower crankcase breather on his car. By pinching the end of the pipe and closing it up he claims to have greatly increased his oil mileage. Would you recommend this? Wm. L.

A. I believe that he is getting better oil mileage but he is also running the risk of having a lot of diluent collect in the engine. He should have cleaned the breather vents. Sometimes there is a suction effect at the lower pipe. This can be broken up by drilling a few holes in the pipe near its end.

Q. I have been trying to check the ignition and valve timing on my car, but can't seem to find any marks on the flywheel. In fact, I don't find the usual peephole in the fly-wheel housing. G.K.J.

A. The marks will be found on the vibration damper.

Q. Recently I have noticed that when I shift to reverse with my automatic transmission there is a noticeable clash. Have you any idea what would cause this? H.R., Jr.

A. There are several possible explanations. I would have your service man check the idling speed of the engine, the linkage, the control valve assembly, the reverse unit and the rear servo of the transmission.

Q. How is the pinion gear on my car adjusted? I have looked over the assembly carefully and cannot find any adjusting nut such as you might see on a steering gear, F.L.J.

A. There is no adjusting nut on a pinion. Adjustment is done by adding or removing shims in accordance with the taking of most accurate measurements. It is no job for the inexperienced.

Q. Is it true that there is less chance of water getting into the gas and causing a gas line freeze-up if the tank is kept full? H.D.R.

A. That is correct. Less internal tank area is exposed, thus there is less condensation. Also remember that a tankful of gas has an effective ballast advantage when the roadway is slippery.

Q. I find that I can get natural rubber inner tubes for my car. Should I have them installed. Would there be any advantage? S.R.McB.

A. Even the tire people find synthetic tubes more practical. These do not lose air and thus offer the advantage of automatic maintenance of correct pressures.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern Street, West Hartford 7, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

RADIO

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Radio and television are becoming so integrated now that an item about one generally concerns the other. For example:

Comedian Henry Morgan is thinking of taking another try at television, patterned after his Sunday NBC radio series. The stress would be on "visual comedy"—or the more stooges the merrier. Among co-workers would be Arnold Stang, one of his radio regulars, who recently took several starts at the camera via the Milton Berle show.

Joe DiMaggio, whose CBS Saturday morning series is to end early in March, has been dickered with NBC on a transfer of his program to that network. The deal involves both radio and television.

Paul Whiteman, who has transferred his radio activities entirely to television, is looking for some one to help him co-MC his Saturday night television show on ABC television now that daughter Marjorie has become Mrs. Thomas Haas and has dropped from the program. The first to get a tryout is Nancy Lewis, member of the regular cast.

On Saturday night list: NBC—8 Hollywood Guest Star theater; 9 Hit Parade; 9:30 Dennis Day; 10:30
